

New Features!

“At the Library” option

You can limit your search to see only what is currently on the shelf! Using the facets on the left, select "at the library" under availability.

Build Private Reading Lists

Create your own lists that you can access through your account. For example, you can create a list of your favorite books, material used to write a research paper, or even a list of books read in your book club. These lists are private, and accessible only by you.

Did you mean?* search functionality

In our old catalog, if a title or author name was misspelled, you may not find what you are looking for. This feature eliminates confusion and corrects common spelling mistakes.

Freeze your holds

Going on vacation? You now have the ability to stop your holds from arriving while you are away. Simply log into your account, view your list of holds, and check the “freeze” box next to the items you’d like to suspend. When you return, uncheck the box. You will still have the same place in the hold line.

Integrated catalog and database searching

Not only will search results show our physical library holdings and eBook collections, but journal articles that are relevant to your topic will show as well. Log into the catalog to link to full text articles!

Novelist

You can easily find the series information for a book, reviews from other readers, and suggested reading in a detailed item record. Some titles even include links to readers guides on the web.

Track your personal reading history

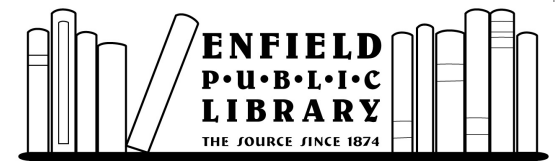

You can "opt in" to save your reading history from your "my account" page. This allows you to keep a list of items that you've checked out from the time that you opted into the system.

Basic Searching:

Search by author, keyword, or title by typing your search term into the text box and clicking the play button to the right.

Search results will default to all libraries.

You can limit your search to our items by choosing Enfield Public Library under "Collection" on the left side of the page.

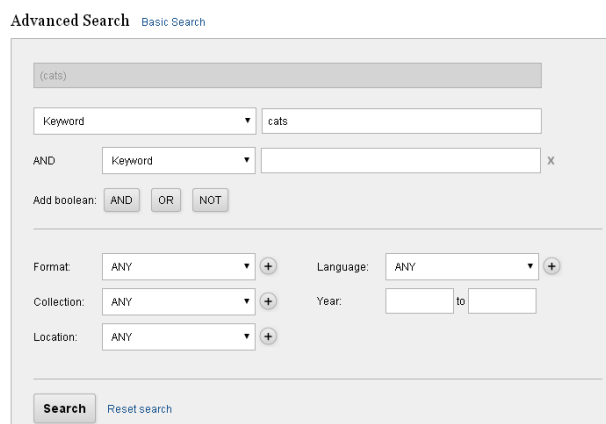

The results are listed by relevance, but you can change this to sort your results by publication date or title.

Refine by:

- ☐ Availability
- ☐ Found In
- ☐ Format
- ☐ Collection
- ☐ Language
- ☐ Tag
- ☐ Place
- ☐ Publish Date

Advanced Searching:

You can perform a more specific search by choosing advanced search.

Instead of a keyword search which will check all relevant fields, you can choose to search by title, author, or subject.

You can also preselect your location by using the collection limiter.

Also, where a basic search could only use "AND" as a search operator, an advanced search allows the use of "OR" and "NOT" to better narrow your search.

My Account:

To access your account, click log in on the top right of the page.

You will be prompted to enter your name (last name, first name) and your library card number (with no spaces). Click submit.

Now that you're logged in, click on your name on the top right of the page to view your account.

You can navigate through your account using the menu on the left side of the screen.
